Value of Master Entrepreneur’s Service to Community

After the Wiley College students complete the five four-hour workshops and are labeled “Master Entrepreneurs”, they will make a commitment to return fifty or more hours of service in that area. The return of service will be in the form of the college students teaching eleventh grade students at the six high schools within Harrison County about entrepreneurship. This service will give $18,040.00 back to the community [20 college students * 50 hours of service * 18.04 (value of a volunteer’s hour)] in just one year. Volunteers are truly the heart and hands of Texas Cooperative Extension!
